The name says it all: “Everyone Rides.” And if you like riding bikes, you ought to like being a part of an event like this, which will be Sunday at JetBlue Park.

Here are some fun details:

- You get to hang out with other bicyclists. It’s also your chance to see if organized rides are your thing. But if you just want to go on your own and enjoy a little ride cuisine and camaraderie, that’s OK, too.
- You can get a little outside your comfort zone, riding new routes or a longer distance, but you’ll have other riders and even support staff to keep an eye out for you. The ride routes are always skewed toward safety and multiple ride lengths keep everyone in the saddle for the time they can handle.
- You get a chance to do a little good. For “Everyone Rides,” proceeds go to buy bikes and helmets for through the Boys & Girls Club of Lee County.

Only a few things to remember: Bring your helmet. Be on time. Learn how to ride and read. Most rides are self-guided, so you’ll get written directions and distances to lead yourself around the course.
